IMPRISONMENT

The defendant is hereby committed to the custody of the United States Bureau of Prisons to be imprisoned for a total term of:

Terms of imprisonment of 60 months on each of Counts (S2)One and (S2)Two, with 27 months of the term of imprisonment on Count (S2)Two to be served consecutively with the term imposed on Count (S2)One, and 33 months of the term of imprisonment on Count (S2)Two to be served concurrently with the term imposed on Count (S2)One, for an aggregate term of imprisonment of 87 months.

✓ The court makes the following recommendations to the Department of Justice:

The Court recommends to the Department of Justice that any application under the International Prisoner Transfer Program or otherwise that would permit the defendant to complete this sentence of imprisonment in Estonia be denied. This is an extremely serious offense that caused very serious harm in the United States. It is appropriate that the penalty imposed by United States law be served in a U.S. institution under U.S. control. The Court is concerned that Estonia's liberal parole scheme, which is quite different and more lenient than our own, based on what the Court has been told, makes the likelihood that the defendant, if transferred to Estonia, would serve the full term of the sentence imposed doubtful. The Court understands also that one of the objectives of the International Prisoner Transfer Program is to promote rehabilitation. The Court considers that a transfer would not promote that goal. The defendant, in the Court's view, does not evidence any sincere rehabilitation and is not particularly likely to do so. Finally, the Court believes that a return of the defendant to Estonia would create new dangers to the United States immediately upon his having access to computers, personnel, and the Internet in Estonia. Thus, this case is not at all typical of other cases in which a foreign national commits a crime in the United States and is permitted to serve out all or part of his sentence in his country of origin. Typically in those cases, the removal of the defendant from the United States as a practical matter protects the United States against the risk of further criminal activity by that defendant. In this case, that would not be true because cyber crime knows no geographical boundaries.

✓ The defendant is remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal.
